On 22 May 2025, the Processes4Planet project RECREATE will organise in Ljubljana the conference EU Composite Advantage Unveiled.

The event will explore the tendencies and opportunities of the European composites market and discuss advancements in sustainable composite materials.

Furthermore, according to the preliminary programme available on the project's website, the panel discussions will address topics relevant to the sector, such as the EU economy and the circularity advantage, early-stage investing, technology transfer and investing in renewables, remanufacturing, and composites market trends.

Moreover, three pitching sessions are prepared for the invites gathered in the Slovenian capital. The sessions will focus on mobility, renewable energy and professional tools and equipment.
